Why Create a GrantForward Profile?

The profile option in Grant Forward is a tool used to identify potential funding opportunities based on the individual's research interests. Research interests are identified through keywords, publication titles, URL for publication page, and/or CV.

After you have created your GrantForward Profile, you can get grant recommendations based on your research interests. These recommendations will automatically be displayed in the "recommendations" section on GrantForward. You can also set up recommended grant alerts to receive notification emails. Additionally, you connect with other researchers that have similar research interests.
