F. Understand in detail financial principals, institutions, and management in corporate activities--LG 5.

Specific Course Learning Objective: Students comprehend and apply accounting information to evaluate financial performance, value financial securities, value the firm, and make value enhancement decisions.

IV. Text and References:

Required is Fundamentals of Corporate Finance: A Focused Approach, Ehrhardt and Brigham, South-Western Cengage Learning (copyright 2013 or later), 5th edition. There are multiple ISBN; the one used by Amazon is 978-1133947530. Textbook decision made by instructor.

V. Special or Unique Student Material:

A financial calculator with a “cash flow” button is needed. Examples: HP 10B, TI BAI Plus, TI 83 (mildly preferred) is needed for exams. A calculator or spreadsheet software is needed for quizzes. During Exams, you are not allowed to use any device with a ‘wireless’ connection (e.g. smartphone, iPad, tablet, laptop, etc.) as a calculator. The project requires spreadsheet software.

VI. Special or Unique University Facilities:

Access to a personal computer with spreadsheet and word processing programs as provided by the student lab. http://www.westga.edu/~chodges/html/finc_6532.html is the location of the course Webpage. CourseDen (D2L) will be used to distribute information and administer quizzes.

VII. Expanded Description of the Course and Instructional Method:

A. Expanded Description of the Course:

The course provides a conceptual framework within which key financial decisions and risks relating to corporations are analyzed. This analysis considers shareholder wealth maximization, the firm’s relationship to its environment, interpretation of accounting data, use of present value analysis and capital budgeting, financial risk management, capital acquisition analysis, capital structure decision, valuation of financial instruments, identification and valuation of real and financial options.

B. Instructional Methods:

1. Lecture and Problem Solving: Topics are discussed via lectures, problem solving, and student generated topics. During lectures, students contribute through their comments and their evaluation of analytical problems. Classes will typically be devoted to analytical problem solving and student generated discussions, while conceptual lectures will be delivered via streaming video. Students may view the conceptual lectures in either a group or individual setting.
2. Individual Research Project: There will be a multi-part graded assignment. The graded assignments and instructions are provided via the module labeled “Company Analysis Project.” This project requires you to apply much of the knowledge you obtain during the course of the semester. It allows you to examine an actual company by applying the analytical methods discussed in class. The project is designed to have a class average of above 90.
3. Quizzes: D2L based quizzes are used as a substitute for homework questions and problems. A quiz is created for each chapter covered in the course. The quizzes are due one week after we cover a chapter. These quizzes are diagnostic in nature, in that their purpose is to allow students to determine areas needing further study. As multiple attempts are allowed on each quiz, and only the highest grade for each quiz is used in calculating quiz grades, it is anticipated that most students will average close to 100 on the quizzes.

VIII. Methods of Evaluating the Outcomes:

A. Evaluation Tools:

Individual Project	14%
2 Minute Feedbacks	2%
Quizzes	34%
Midterm exam	20%
Final Exam	30%

There is no extra credit in this course. Work submitted for credit in other courses will not be accepted for credit in this course.

B. Learning Domains:

1. Cognitive: Knowledge, Comprehension, Analysis, Synthesis, and Evaluation.
2. Affective: Receiving, Responding, Valuing, Organization, and Characterization.
